

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Is it spring at last?
Jaquith has a new ad. this week.
Read the proclamation by the Mayor in another column.
J. A. Segner, the barber, is in St. Louis buying a bath outfit.
Two weddings—long looked for—it is said, will occur this month.
The iron railroad bridge across Knob Creek has been put in position.
Ascension Day services at St. Paul's church tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.
Circuit court for Reynolds county convenes at Centerville Monday, May 22d.
The early gardens are yielding their fruits and the vegetation is in its glory.
The first strawberries of the season arrived in the town from the south last Tuesday.
The school board meets to-day for the purpose of choosing teachers for the ensuing year.
Rev. Shoush will preach the dedication sermon at a new church on Marble Creek Sunday after next.
The farmers have not yet had an opportunity to complete corn-planting, owing to the continued wet weather.
Rev. Shoush was circulating a petition the first of the week asking the authorities to close the World's Fair on Sunday.
Ironton was treated to an "Historical Museum" three days of the past week. The crew departed for Piedmont Tuesday.
The passenger trains now carry four and five fruit cars each day. They are filled with strawberries from the Arkansas gardens.
The late work at the Silver Mines has disclosed a fine vein of mineral. Prospecting, for the present, though, has been discontinued.
The Soultards, who have spent several summers in the Valley, have this year rented Mrs. Overstolz's house, and will occupy it for the season.
The Register had neither boss nor "devil" Monday. The former was in Farmington attending court, and the latter at home a sufferer from the mumps.
All departments of the public school are now closed. The principal's department closed Wednesday last; the intermediate, Friday, and the primary yesterday.
The date of the I. O. O. F. entertainment at Annapolis has been changed to May 23d. Read the "ad." in another column; attend and have a good time.
Rev. Daniels from Cape Girardeau preached at the Baptist church Tuesday night; he was soliciting subscriptions for the building of a new church at the Cape.
The turn-table at Arcadia, long promised and patiently waited for, has not yet been built. Rush of work at more urgent places is assigned as the reason for the delay.
Collector Whitworth and Deputy Sheriff O'Neal took Munsford Underwood, the murderer, to the penitentiary last Thursday; Timlin, insane, was taken to the asylum.
Elijah Masterson, who lives near Arcadia, was arrested Tuesday on the charge of hog stealing. Judge Holloman being the prosecuting witness. The case will be tried Thursday.
The Register is pleased to learn that Mr. J. W. Kells is again at his home in Arcadia, greatly improved in health. We trust he will soon be fully restored and able to resume his duties again.
While the streets of Ironton are in much better condition than those of the other towns in Southeast Missouri, still they are not as good as they used to be. There should be some judicious repairs.
Owing to the attendance not being as large as had been anticipated, the training school, which was to have been inaugurated at the school house Monday, was deferred until the first Monday in June, when the regular county institute will begin.
The City Council met Monday, and transacted considerable business. A. P. Vance was appointed assessor; the rate of taxation for the ensuing year was fixed at twenty-five cents on the one hundred dollars.
It will be observed by reference to the official notice in another column that the city council intends to enforce the ordinance prohibiting horses from running at large within the city limits. This is right and proper, and we hope the law will be strictly adhered to. A hog ordinance will be enacted at the next session of the council in June.
Jno. T. Baldwin informs us that he has just received word of the death of Messrs. James and Oziah Moser. The former's demise occurred at Hankook, Texas, and the latter's at Kansas. They will be remembered by Ironton people as brothers of Geo. A. Moser, a former citizen of this place. We tender our sympathy to the bereaved family.
Robt. Hill and Joe Henson, who, with their teams, started on the road with Clark's circus Monday of last week returned to Ironton Sunday, having left the show the day before at Boone Terre. Business, so far, had been good, but Robert says that circus life is not always a "path of roses"; in time the performance grows old, the lights of the sawdust ring lose their lustre, the music of the band becomes tiresome, and the novelty soon wears away; then, it begins to be work, and hard work, too, with little or no sleep interspersed. And anyway Robert says he did not want to get too far away from Ironton.

John Swearingin, an employee on the Hogan section, met with a painful and serious mishap Monday morning. He was at work repairing some wire fencing; in endeavoring to loosen a piece of wire from a post it suddenly gave way, and the end struck him in one of his eyes, bursting the eye ball. The unfortunate man was sent to the hospital next day and it is hoped he will soon recover.

A "gilded palace" within the confines of Arcadia is causing our neighbors across the creek no end of trouble and annoyance. The inmates were last week ordered to "vacate" by Saturday night; they refused to obey the mandate, whereupon a crowd of boys assembled, repaired to the abiding place of the objectionable residents, and "tore up the house." The objectionable inmates still refuse to move.

Frank Francis at Sabula was the victim of a singular and most unfortunate accident Monday evening. He was making some repairs on his breech-loading shot gun and had removed the stock from the barrels, placing the latter on a chair. As he started across the room, the gun barrels in some way became displaced and fell from the chair to the floor; one of the caps instantly exploded and the entire contents of one of the barrels entered Mr. Francis' thigh. As the gun was heavily loaded with buckshot the wound is a most dangerous one, and the sufferer at last report was in a critical condition.

The address by Grand Lecturer Rixey, of the I. O. O. F., at the Academy of Music last Friday evening was fairly well attended, and those present had the pleasure of listening to a learned and interesting speaker. In his native language, Mr. Rixey presented the many virtues of Odd Fellowship to his hearers; he dwelt at length on the history of the order and the good it has accomplished for mankind. Neither did he fail to enumerate some of the shortcomings to be found among the members, and in language, both firm and explicit, he made his criticisms. The lecture throughout was an entertaining one, and Mr. Rixey was given close attention until he had finished.

The Horse Ordinance.

At a meeting of the city council held this day I was instructed to enforce the ordinance prohibiting the running at large of horses within the city limits. I propose to follow my instructions, and every one interested will govern themselves accordingly. From and after this date each and every person allowing their horse or mule to run at large within the limits of the city will be vigorously prosecuted.

A Protest From the South End.

VULCAN, Mo., May 9th, 1893.
Ed. Register—As citizens having partly recovered from the shock we received on hearing of the acquittal of Underwood, the murderer, we beg leave to vent a little of our wrath through the columns of your valuable paper. In the first place, Mr. Editor, we cannot understand how a man charged with murder, under penalty of death, can be acquitted without a trial; and secondly, how the court can dismiss a suit where there is such an overwhelming amount of evidence for conviction; and thirdly, the citizens feel as if they were not represented by being throttled in such a manner that the half of the evidence in this case was never gotten, either by the coroner or grand jury. There was a time in the good old antebellum days, when men loved their neighbors as themselves; that courts would not have been burdened with such a case, though a close search, would probably have revealed something much resembling the pendulum of a clock, swinging to a limb close by. Now, Mr. Editor, we would not have you think that we are making a rendezvous for murderers and thieves, but all our stores are plundered; our post-office robbed; public worship is disturbed; wilful murder is committed in our midst, and it seems as if we are powerless to prosecute. We had a grand jury of good men, but, although several bills were found, but few were convicted of the charges. The people elected Mr. Jordan prosecuting attorney, to look after the interest of the State, and would be pleased to see him do so. But an unconditional surrender and free delivery in this case does not suit the people here, and they are of the opinion that if there is such a thing as law in Iron county, in order to experiment it might be well to try it once in a while; and if there is any balm in Gilead, we would like to have a little. If Mr. Jordan has any excuse in this matter, why not express himself, and let the people know what he is trying to stand on.

With good wishes for the REGISTER, we will close.
KICKERS FROM KICKERSVILLE.

Proclamation by the Mayor of the City of Ironton.

In view of the dread apprehension almost universally felt, that Asiatic cholera will be epidemic in this country during the ensuing summer and autumn, I deem it advisable officially to call your attention to the unsanitary condition of certain parts of the City, and to ask your co-operation with the officers of the City of Ironton. That filth and decaying animal and vegetable substances produce many forms of sickness and promote and intensify epidemics, is a fact nowhere disputed, and cannot be disregarded with safety. And prompt attention to this will make the work of putting the City in proper sanitary condition easy and inexpensive to all concerned, and justify the reputation of the City of Ironton as the healthiest town in Missouri.

These precautions will certainly diminish the liability of our City to cholera, provided we have an unusually hot summer; and if we are not threatened with such good will be done in preventing other diseases to which we are liable in common with every other community in the Mississippi Valley, and which owe their origin to filth and uncleanness. I trust every good citizen will see that his premises are kept in proper condition.
By order of the Mayor.
W. T. GAY.

Annapolis News.

Ed. Register—Mrs. Wadlow has gone to live with her daughter, Mrs. W. H. Fowl; Mr. Fowl came last week, and took her home with him.
John Towl was in town a few days last week.

Robt. Woody, who has been out of town for several days, returned Friday. Mrs. Joseph Pierce arrived in town yesterday.

T. P. Rixey, Grand Lecturer of the Missouri I. O. O. F., was in town Thursday. He lectured the Rebekah in the afternoon, and the subordinate in the evening. He expressed himself as being favorably impressed with the lodge here, and it is hoped that much and lasting good may result from his visit.

F. R. Grider, D. D. G. M. I. O. O. F., and Mr. Beard, both of Bismarck, came here Tuesday on their way to Centerville, to institute an I. O. O. F. Lodge there. They were to have been there the day before, but owing to the high water, were unable to get there; but as this was the second time that they had failed to get there on account of the high water, they concluded to go on over and trust to luck, fearing that if they waited to set a new date, that high water might again interfere. They stayed over here until Wednesday morning, and then, in company with Jas. Harris, Wm. Towl, Frank Smith and F. P. Hilburn, they got in a wagon behind Henry Benson's big iron gray horses, and started for Centerville in the kingdom of Reynolds. Aside from the fact that three of us were occupying one seat that was crumpled (and in the language of the song, "Tied up with little bits of wire"), we started out under very fair prospects for a nice journey. Everything went along smoothly but the wagon, (and I would like to see the wagon that would go smoothly over our roads) until we were about four miles out of town; there we came to a place where the road was very rough, and the little boy said, in directing the driver to the nearest town. Here are the boy's directions: "Stranger, do you see that barn over there? Well, that is dad's barn; you go down back of that barn, and you will find a lane; you go up that lane 'til you come to a slippery elm log; be very careful stranger how you go on that log, for it is awful slick. After you cross that log, go on until you come to the brow of that hill, and there the road prevails; you take the left hand road and go on and on until you come to a big plum thicket, and then—" "Well, what then sonny?" "Why, then stranger, I'll be darned if you ain't lost." Well, as I was going to say, we took the left hand road and went on until we came to the brow of the hill. We did not see any slippery elm log nor plum thicket, but I'll be darned if we didn't get lost. Now if I will go back about a half mile, I will show you where we killed a large black snake; it was almost two yards in length, and was hanging to the side of a tree, about six feet from the ground. Well, after we found out that we were lost, we saw a teamster about a quarter of a mile away loading logs; one of our party went over to him and inquired the way. He either misdirected us or our man misunderstood him; at any rate, we went farther out of our way; and the first place we struck where we knew the ground, was at Wallace Keathley's, two miles from Black River. It was then after eleven, and Mrs. Keathley, who, by the way, used to live in Annapolis and whose husband is an Odd Fellow, offered to set dinner for us, but we declined, and started on our journey. Well, we went about a mile or two, and then I'll be darned if we weren't lost again! Well, we turned back about a half mile and a fresh start, and after traveling in doubt for a long time, we came into the Lesterville road at J. W. Coleman's mill, and then we had comparatively smooth sailing. At Lesterville we met Dr. Miner and inquired about the river and he advised us to take the Middle Fork road, but to go through the woods for a couple of miles to avoid two fords. With the exception of the crossing over our crippled seat, we arrived at Centerville without further accident. We were cordially received by the Odd Fellows of Centerville, and spent a pleasant evening. An I. O. O. F. lodge was instituted, the officers elected, one member initiated and the degrees conferred on two members. The morning was far advanced when we had completed our labors and retired to the couch of peace, and we were soon locked in the arms of Morpheus. We made the return trip without accident or adventure, and arrived in Annapolis about 2:30 p. m. While in Centerville we made the acquaintance of Mr. A. P. Shriver, editor of the Reynolds County Outlook; we were very favorably impressed with the people of Centerville. We were completely captured by the large spring mill, just below the town. We did not fall into the spring, Mr. Editor, but we fell in love with the spot. And if we could move it over on the line of the I. M. railroad, (and could borrow the money) we would give a thousand dollars for it.

But this article is already too long, and I will close by calling your attention to a clipping from last Sunday's Republic: "I discover some curious things in my business," said J. S. Higgins, the map publisher, the other day to The Man About Town. "For instance, there is a strip of territory three miles wide in this State upon which no taxes have been paid for years, because it is not officially known to which of two counties it belongs. When the Assessor of one county tackles the residents they allege that they live in the other, and vice versa. I went down there to survey for a map, and I barely escaped with my life when I began to talk of publishing the correct county line. I asked members of the Legislature why they did not have the matter straightened out and discovered that the residents of the strip had threatened political death to any candidate who interfered, and as they possessed the voting power to shelve a man forever in that locality, they are permitted to live in peaceful security with all the privileges of civilization without paying taxes for them. But that is not all; I assert as a fact that Ironton, the county seat of Iron county, is by statute situated in Madison county. These are only two instances of many where such things exist, yet the legislators have not the moral courage to straighten them out."

Graniteville News.

Ed. Register—Messrs. Peter Hartman, Robt. Webber, William Masson and Johnny Burk drove to Farmington last Sunday for a pleasure trip, returning rather late at night.

Rev. O. W. Rose went to St. Louis last Thursday, in response to a telegram from his sick wife (who is in the hospital receiving medical treatment) saying that she was no better. Mr. Rose, however, returned home Saturday, and it is learned that she is again improving.

The Sycenite Granite Company are still putting on a few stone cutters occasionally, which makes things look a little more spirited.
The merchandise firm of Maschmeyer & Trauernicht has now been dissolved by mutual consent. Mr. Maschmeyer retiring. Mr. Trauernicht, however, will continue in the business, and now go it single handed. He opened up in selling trim on Saturday evening last, after a five weeks' close up, pending the taking of stock and a general settlement, which was effected on that day. Suffice it to say, that they have lost several dollars' worth of trade during the time of settlement—but what was their loss, was some other man's gain.
Mrs. Chas. B. Reno is visiting with relatives in Sycenite, Mo.
Mrs. Peter Brodie is also visiting in Sycenite.

Mrs. Patrick H. Coogan is visiting relatives in Farmington at present.
Mr. Chas. Schifferly is in one of the city hospitals, undergoing treatment for a very ugly wound on one of his legs, caused several months ago. At first, it was only a slight skin abrasion, but he thought very little of the matter for awhile, but the wound instead of healing up, commenced to get very painful again, and fearing it might prove serious, concluded to go to the city last week and consult a physician.
Very little, if any sickness, are we called on to chronicle in this section at present. And it is hoped that the general state of health will continue as it now is.

Ayer's Hair Vigor restores natural color to the hair, by stimulating a healthy action of the scalp. This preparation also produces a vigorous growth of the hair, and gives it a beautiful lustre and youthful appearance. Recommended by physicians, clergymen, and scientists.

Personal.

Miss Addie Pettit is visiting Ironton relatives and friends.
J. L. Dugy, late of Bismarck, is now in Denver, Col.
Andy Marks of St. Louis is visiting his sister, Mrs. A. Roehry.
Mrs. Dr. Strong and daughter, Miss Edith, were in St. Louis last Thursday. C. T. Mason, so long night operator at Arcadia, but later of Piedmont, is now engaged at Bismarck; so is Mr. Taylor, late of Arcadia.
Walter Clarkson of Grandin was in the Valley a couple of days this week.
Geo. L. Moore, now at Bismarck, expects to go to Arkansas next week, and accept a position as operator and agent.
Adolph Lopez, who has been confined to his room for two months past with inflammatory rheumatism, passed through Ironton Monday on his way to Hot Springs. He was accompanied by his brother George.

Every family should be provided with some reliable remedy for bowel complaints. The want of such an article is the cause of much suffering, especially during the summer months. In almost every neighborhood some one has died, with cramps or cholera morbus, before medicine could be produced or a physician summoned. A fair trial will satisfy you that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is unequalled for those diseases. It is also a certain cure for dysentery and diarrhoea. When reduced with water and sweetened, it is pleasant to take. Children like it. For sale by P. R. Crisp, druggist.
